

JEWISH STUDIES - GRADUATE CERTIFICATE

This certificate program allows graduate students across campus who are interested in Jewish studies to explore Jewish culture, history, society, and thought in a number of disciplines. Jewish studies also provides intensive mentoring of graduate research and writing projects through the Jewish Studies Graduate Student Colloquium.

Requirements

Admission Requirements

This graduate certificate is open to all currently matriculated graduate students. Students may apply for the graduate certificate at any point in their graduate career at CU. For more information, view the Jewish Studies website (<https://www.colorado.edu/jewishstudies/certificate/>).

Course Requirements

Successful completion of 3 graduate courses (9 credit hours) with a grade of B or higher from Jewish Studies' list of approved graduate courses, issued every semester, which comprises graduate courses crosslisted in the Program in Jewish Studies as well as approved courses taught by faculty in the Program in Jewish Studies. If you think a course is missing from this list, please contact the Director of Graduate Studies.

Students may petition the graduate studies committee to have a maximum of one graduate level course (including independent study courses) from outside this list, if that course contains significant Jewish Studies content and the student's completed work for that course is related to Jewish Studies.
