CU Boulder Education Abroad offers over 400 approved programs in more than 70 countries around the world. Program options exist for every major and are offered for every term including winter break and summer break (the latter has numerous options of varying lengths and credit amounts). Planning for study abroad varies by major, but it is recommended that you have an initial planning conversation with your Academic Advisor as early as possible. A growing list of over 10,000 pre-approved courses provides course options abroad for various degree requirements. Program costs vary widely and include over 30 programs that are comparable to semester costs for in-state students. Students can use existing financial aid and institutional scholarships for a semester/year abroad, and additional scholarship opportunities exist.
