ANTHROPOLOGY - MINOR

Anthropology is the study of people, both ancient and modern, in their cultural, biological and environmental contexts. Anthropology is the only field to address all aspects of the human experience—cultural, biological, historical—so the discipline necessarily incorporates a wide range of theoretical and methodological traditions, drawing on and contributing to approaches in the humanities, social sciences and natural sciences. It is the breadth of our vision of what it means to be human, as well as the breadth of our theoretical and methodological approaches, that constitutes our unique mission and role within the university. Thus, a minor in anthropology would provide a rich intellectual complement to a wide range of majors within the College of Arts and Sciences.

Requirements

A minimum of 18 credit hours of anthropology courses, including a minimum of 9 upper-division credit hours, are required for the minor. All course work applied to the minor must be completed with a grade of C- or better; no pass/fail work may be applied. The grade point average for all anthropology course work must equal 2.00 (C) or higher.

Students will be allowed to apply no more than 9 credit hours, including 6 upper-division credit hours, of transfer work towards a minor in anthropology.

Course work applied towards a minor in anthropology may also be applied towards Gen. Ed. requirements.

Nine hours of upper-division electives in anthropology

Total Credit Hours 18

The three introductory courses will provide all minors with an appreciation of the range of scholarship encompassed by contemporary anthropology.

Students are recommended to select upper-division course work to best complete their majors. For example, the following subjects work well with the majors listed:

- Cultural anthropology: Asian studies, communications, economics, ethnic studies, film studies, international affairs, Jewish studies, linguistics, media studies, political science, religious studies, sociology or women and gender studies majors.
- Archaeology: Art history, classics or environmental design majors.
- Physical anthropology: Ecology and evolutionary biology, integrated physiology or molecular, cellular and developmental biology majors.
- Archaeology or physical anthropology: History or humanities majors.
- Any of the anthropology sub-disciplines: Environmental studies or geography majors.
