

ASIAN LANGUAGES AND CIVILIZATIONS

The Department of Asian Languages and Civilizations, founded in 1982, offers undergraduate majors in Chinese and Japanese, minors in Arabic, Chinese, Hindi/Urdu, Japanese and Korean, and certificates in Middle Eastern and Islamic Studies and South Asian Languages and Civilizations, as well as language, literature and culture courses in Arabic, Chinese, Farsi, Hindi/Urdu, Japanese and Korean.

Undergraduate students receive a thorough grounding in the modern language, an introduction to the classical language and literature and a broad familiarity with the literary and cultural history of their selected area.

Students interested in Chinese or Japanese (<https://www.colorado.edu/alc/undergraduate/majors>) are encouraged to broaden their academic horizon through a double major, combining either language with another field of interest. Likewise, students in all Asian Languages and Civilizations programs as well as programs outside the department can pursue one of the department's minors (<https://www.colorado.edu/alc/undergraduate/minors>) or certificates (<https://www.colorado.edu/alc/undergraduate/certificates>) as a way of broadening their career options.

Before registering for specific courses, students should consult with a departmental advisor (<https://www.colorado.edu/alc/undergraduate/advising>) concerning appropriate placement in language classes beyond the beginning level.

In addition to language instruction courses, the department offers several courses taught in English (<https://www.colorado.edu/alc/courses>). These courses provide an excellent introduction to the literary and cultural histories of the areas involved. They are open to all interested students and do not require previous study of the language or subjects addressed.

The department strongly encourages all students to participate in Study Abroad to enrich their studies in our programs. For information about programs throughout the world, contact the Education Abroad office (<http://abroad.colorado.edu>).

Recent graduates have found positions in such fields as government service, international business and secondary-school teaching; others have gone on to graduate study in Chinese or Japanese. Additional career opportunities can be found on the Career Services website (<http://www.colorado.edu/career>).

For more information about the Department of Asian Languages and Civilizations, please visit the department website (<https://www.colorado.edu/alc>).

Course codes for the department's six programs are ARAB, CHIN, FRSI, HIND, JPNS and KREN.
