HISTORY - MINOR

Students who wish to take several history courses may want to consider becoming either a History Major or a Minor. In general, the Major requires a more in-depth commitment from students whereas the Minor offers students an opportunity for some specialization in History without all the obligations of the Major.

For those students already pursuing a Major in another field, a History Minor might be the more viable option because the Minor requires the completion of fewer overall history courses.

Requirements

2000-level HIST courses and courses taken for core curriculum credit are applicable to the minor. 4000-level courses may be used to fulfill both upper-division credit hours and geographic area credit hours.

HIST 3020 and all 3000-level Senior Seminars are restricted to history majors. 3000-level courses may occasionally be taken by minors if the course is not full as of the second week of drop-add and/or you have written permission from the instructor.

Required Courses and Semester Credit Hours

A total of 21 credit hours in history, of which at least 12 credit hours must be upper-division. Courses intended to count for the minor may not be taken on a pass/fail basis, and students must earn a C- or better in any course to be counted toward the 21-credit-hour minor requirement.

At least 3 credit hours (one course each) must be taken in each of the four following geographical areas: the United States, Europe, World Areas (specific areas outside of Europe and North America) and Global or Comparative.
