

SPANISH AND PORTUGUESE

The Department of Spanish and Portuguese offers three major tracks and two minors. Language courses at the elementary and intermediate levels are also offered in Spanish, Portuguese and Catalan.

The department has identified the following as educational outcomes for the three tracks within the Spanish major.

The undergraduate degree in Spanish language and literature emphasizes knowledge and awareness of:

- The fundamental outlines of the history of literary and cultural expressions of the Spanish-speaking world.
- Major creative writers in both Spanish and Spanish American literature.
- Basic critical methodologies in the study of different genres ranging from fiction to poetry in a variety of textual forms, and from the written word to cinema, media and other visual arts.
- The cultural and historical contexts in which Spanish-speaking societies developed and continue to develop.

In addition, students completing the degree in Spanish language and literature are expected to acquire the ability and skills to:

- Read sophisticated Spanish texts at a level at which literary and cultural analyses can be performed.
- Write and speak Spanish sufficiently to participate in critical discussions and write critical essays.
- Analyze and interpret texts in terms of themes, characters, structure, style and overall textual strategies.
- Relate analysis and interpretations of different texts to one another.
- Communicate such interpretations competently in written form in Spanish.

The undergraduate degree in Spanish and Portuguese language and culture emphasizes knowledge and awareness of the same topics listed in the degree in Spanish language and literature, in addition specifies electives to focus on:

- The culture of the Portuguese-speaking world.
- Knowledge of the Portuguese language.

The undergraduate degree in Spanish for the professions emphasizes knowledge and awareness of:

- Several professional practices including business, health, media and sustainable development practices as applied to the Spanish-speaking world.
- Fundamental Professional Spanish terminology related to these areas.
- The cultural environment in which these professions are conducted in the Spanish-speaking world.
- Basic disciplinary practices according to the canons of each discipline.
- Best practices in cross-cultural communication.
- Best practices in the field of translation, interpretation and language services in the targeted professional areas.

In addition, students completing the degree in Spanish for the professions are expected to acquire the ability and skills to:

- Read and interpret in cultural and professional-related terms sophisticated Spanish texts concerning business, health, media and sustainable development practices.
- Write and speak Spanish sufficiently to communicate effectively on professional-related issues, be involved in critical discussions and write critical essays on the subject.
- Analyze a particular professional problem in order to place it in a relevant context and formulate an appropriate response.
- Adequately translate professional-related documents.

Course codes for these programs are SPAN and PORT.
