NEW STUDENT & FAMILY PROGRAMS

New Student & Family Programs (NSFP) supports new students and families throughout their transition and involvement at the University of Colorado Boulder.

In order to aid in the transition to CU Boulder, all incoming undergraduate students must complete an online orientation program, the Online New Student Experience (https://www.colorado.edu/orientation/online-experience), in order to register for classes. The Online Experience requires activation of a student’s IdentiKey (https://oit.colorado.edu/services/identity-access-management/identikey) and is accessible from MyCUInfo (http://mycuinfo.colorado.edu). This program is critical to the college experience as it helps incoming students learn more about student success, advising, registration and campus resources. New students should check their CU Boulder email account (https://oit.colorado.edu/services/messaging-collaboration/gsuite/gmail) for more information about the Online Experience and other important next steps.

In addition to the online requirement, new students and their family members are encouraged to attend a New Student Welcome Day (https://www.colorado.edu/orientation/spring-new-student-welcome-day) on campus which is supplemental to the required Online New Student Experience. These optional one-day programs offer incoming students and family members an opportunity to come to campus and connect with academic advisors, faculty, current students and student support services.

New Student & Family Programs also collaborates with campus partners to plan fall and spring Welcome events surrounding the first day of classes. Students participate in programs and have opportunities to connect with current students, faculty and staff to create a healthy and positive transition to CU Boulder.

For more information, visit the New Student & Family Programs (http://www.colorado.edu/orientation) website.